

NAVY ALLIANCE OF 3 NATIONS IS NOT APPROVED

Harding and Wilson Agreed That All Must Consent to Disarmament.

BORAH TAKES NEW STAND

Bitter Ender Beginning to Realize Necessity for Nations' League.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1921

Washington.—Disarmament may yet be the basis for the new association of nations planned by the next administration. President Wilson will not avail himself of the privilege given him by the naval act of 1916 authorizing the call of a conference of nations to discuss the question of a reduction of armaments but there are indications that President Harding will call such a conference.

Members of congress who have been at Washington since Senator Harding's victory on naval armament are somewhat dissatisfied from the attitude of those in congress who want to enter into a naval agreement with Japan and Great Britain alone. Mr. Harding is represented as anxious to approach the whole question in an effort to get a general understanding with all naval building nations and he is further said to be unwilling to see America cut down the size of her navy until a definite agreement with the other powers has been reached.

Perhaps the insistence by the Wilson administration on completing the big building program authorized in 1916 has been widely misunderstood as a sudden turn to navalism and selfishness. Foreign critics have caricatured America as a second Germany. But the truth is the ideals which actuated the Wilson administration in the "too proud to fight" era have not been surrendered but lessons taught by the war have been taken to heart. Men like Josephus Daniels, who came into the navy department in 1913, believing that war was impossible and that America's entrance into the European conflict when it did arise could be avoided, are not so trusting as before. With hatred, suspicion, and jealousy alive in the world and with League of Nations, the necessity of being prepared for further international disturbances is regarded as essential. In other words, the Wilson administration is just as distrustful as it ever was of other nations but it sees the duty of the present hour as one of caution and preparedness letting changes in policy be made only when all other nations have signed on the dotted line a pledge to stop building ships or preparing for war.

Every effort to cut down the size of the navy will be resisted by the present administration until an international agreement is reached with other nations. All resolutions looking toward the limiting of armaments of Japan and England alone will be rejected. For the disposition of the navy department here is to look upon the Borah proposal as nothing more or less than the beginning of a political alliance with Japan and England. The Wilson administration is naturally gratified that Senator Borah has seen the necessity of an international agreement of some kind and has given up the position he took during the campaign that he didn't want any political alliance or agreement with any nation, but so long as the proposal contemplates only three nations and does not include all the powers of the globe, it will not have the sanction of the present administration.

Harding Wants Trump

Meanwhile it cannot be taken for granted that congress will cut down the size of the American navy as it is reported that Senator Harding doesn't want any move made that might take the cards out of his hands when he sits down with the representatives of other nations to discuss the reduction of armaments everywhere. Senator Harding is deeply interested in the provisions of the naval act of 1916 under which the present building program was launched. He need not ask congress for authority. He need not go to Senators Borah and Johnson or members of any other group in the senate for the law is already on the statute books and the appropriation for the expense of such an international conference is already made. Mr. Wilson didn't call the conference because he believed the league of nations would tackle the question. But America being an outsider could not participate officially in the discussions of the European nations will send to Washington the same men who have been members of the league of nations commission on armament. Through the question of disarmament the whole subject of international co-operation may be opened anew and the way paved for an agreement with the rest of the nations of the world to prevent war and preserve peace. Disarmament has come concretely before the peoples of the world, including America, through the enormous task program involved. The Wilson administration by sticking to its naval building program has emphasized the necessity of international agreement and some kind of a league of nations. That's why any effective move toward disarmament will have the approval of the democrats in congress even after the Wilson administration passes out of power.

National Bank Issue Is Urged On Harding

By Raymond Clapper

By United Press Leased Wire
Marion, Ohio.—A stormy partisan fight early in the Harding administration over the proposed establishment of a centralized bank of the United States to replace the present Federal reserve banks, was indicated here today when it became known that republican leaders are laying plans to raise that issue soon.

Leaders have already sought the support of the president-elect and plan to make the creation of a central bank one of the achievements of the next administration if Harding will consent to making the fight.

Indications are the proposal is being seriously considered here, although Senator Harding is following his usual custom of saying nothing until he has studied the reaction of public sentiment. It was regarded as significant, however, that Senator Crowder, republican senate whip, should immediately following a lengthy conference with Harding, announce the intention of offering amendments to the Federal reserve act. These, he said, would be designed to wipe out the existing 112 regional banks and substitute one central bank with branches located at widely separated geographical points. This move, it was expected, will reopen the bitter fight which was waged between democrats and republicans over the Aldrich plan some years ago when essentially the same scheme was proposed.

Republicans were unable to obtain action. Republican leaders claim serious defects exist in the present regional bank system which would be wiped out by establishment of a single bank with greater centralization of control. One of the chief defects, they say, is the effort of regional banks to earn profits on their stock which is held by national member banks. This, it is alleged, prevents the free flow of banking reserves from one region to another and prevents shifting of credit facilities.

Democratic members of both houses of congress may be expected to oppose any efforts in this direction, their party having been committed against the idea of a national bank since the days of Andrew Jackson.

BRITAIN GAINS LAP IN RACE FOR CONTROL OF OIL

Greek Government Grants New Oil Land Concession to British Company.

By United Press Leased Wire
Athens.—Great Britain has again stolen a lap in the world race for control of oil, it became known today.

This time American concerns, including Standard Oil, were blocked when British companies and the Royal Dutch candidate were given concessions in newly discovered fields of northern Greece.

The extent of the oil yield in Thrace and Epirus has not been made public, if it is known, but the grants are believed to be most valuable.

Greece's discovery of her valuable oil property, it is believed, among Greek officials and foreign statesmen here, will play a large part in determining the attitude of the allies toward her.

It has been stated authoritatively that Great Britain's treatment of the country, now ruled by King Constantine who was once dethroned by Britain's help will be governed by the value of the oil lands. It is expected the same factor will determine the courses of Italy and France. Greek statesmen believe it will have an effect on the United States also.

While British authorities have been non-committal the belief prevails they will approve any Greek government which will give them the inside track in developing the oil fields.

Due to this, it was said, Great Britain offered no protest when the Constantine government took possession of 200,000,000 drachmas remaining from the 400,000,000 drachmas credit extended the former government by the allies. Constantine took the money without authorization from the inter-allied financial commission.

A possibility that oil rights will be used as an argument in the United States was seen in Greece's request for loans in the United States. The government has asked permission to use the remainder of $50,000,000 credit granted the Venizelos government after the armistice.

BRITAIN AND FRANCE AGREE ON DISARMAMENT

By United Press Leased Wire
London.—It was semi-officially reported here today that the French and British general staffs are in accord on the question of German disarmament. The only difference was Britain did not wish to hurry the process, believing conditions were not ripe for dissolving the defense organization necessary as a barrier to claims and counter claims of the two candidates that irregularities had been committed and that Newberry did not receive a plurality of the legally cast ballots.

EMPLOYERS ALSO HIT BY DECISION

Leaders Warn Against Basing Open Shop Fight on High Court Ruling.

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington.—The United States supreme court's interpretation of the Clayton anti-trust act may hit employers as well as labor unions, it developed here today.

Government officials and legal authorities studying the decision, called attention to the fact that the court condemned the "secondary boycott" as a restraint upon interstate commerce. They pointed out that big employers have been charged with employing such boycotts and one has admitted it.

While officials of the American Federation of Labor were cheered to know that employers as well as unions might be hit by the court decision, they said its effect was unfortunate for labor.

James O'Connell, vice-president of the federation, warned employers not to attempt to fight their battle of the "open shop" on the basis of the decision.

"Labor still has control of its big card weapon, namely the strike," said O'Connell.

"If this decision really has removed labor's protection from anti-trust proceedings, we can go to congress and have the law rewritten to make it apply against open shop decisions."

CLAYTON ACT SUSPENDED

Railroads Permitted to Buy From Companies in Which They Are Interested.

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington.—Important phases of the railroad problem were back in congress today.

The senate interstate commerce commission was considering whether it will recommend an effort to pass a law suspending the operation of section 10 of the Clayton act.

Railroad executives planned to ask the same committee as well as the house interstate commerce committee to amend the transportation act so that the $400,000,000 due them from the government under the guarantee provisions of the act will be made available immediately.

The decision of congress on these questions will determine whether the roads can go ahead with plans to spend about $350,000,000 for equipment this year, according to railroad executives.

Organized railroad labor and some congressmen are expected to advance the argument that profits to railroad executives and a further deficit of the federal treasury are also involved.

Section ten of the Clayton act passed six years ago but never allowed to go into effect, is aimed at interlocking of officials between railroads and equipment companies and between railroads and banks. Under it, roads can buy equipment from companies in which railroad officials are interested only after competitive bidding. The same provisions apply to banks floating railroad securities, according to the interstate commerce commission.

Members of the senate committee today said they had been informed railroad executives wanted a further suspension because they have large orders for equipment with companies which are in fact subsidiaries of the roads. William H. Johnston, head of the International Association of Machinists, recently made this charge and declared that because of continued suspension of section 10 railroad executives were reaping large personal profits.

According to Robert S. Binkerd, the equipment orders which railroads have placed or plan to place if they can get financial aid total $549,500,000. This includes 45,000 freight cars, 15,000 refrigerator cars, 1,500 locomotives and 1,200 passenger coaches.

Railroad executives contended that the putting into effect of section 10 will delay placing these orders because there will have to be an "unscrambling" of existing interlocking interests. They also argue that unless the government funds due them are paid soon, they cannot get the credit to enable them to place the orders.

The railroad decision to ask congress to change the transportation law to enable roads to collect immediately was reported after local courts here refused to order a treasury decision that the roads could get no money at all until a final accounting with the government was had. Under this ruling the rail executives say, the money due the roads may not be paid them for years.

WOMAN FAINTS AT MURDER PORTRAYAL

Wife, Accused of Killing Husband; Collapses During Ac- complice's Trial.

Bridgeport, Conn.—Crushed by the gruesome description of the wounds on the mutilated body of her husband, Mrs. Ethel H. Nott collapsed in the courtroom here today and was led out stumbling and sobbing.

This dramatic episode featured the actual opening of the trial of Elwood B. Wade on a charge of killing Nott in his "jazz piano" murder case, putting his body in a trunk and sinking it in a swamp.

Mrs. Nott and another man are also charged with the killing.

The recital which caused Mrs. Nott's breakdown was that of Dr. Garlick, county medical examiner, a little old man with gray hair and beard who made the autopsy on George E. Nott after he had been stabbed to death while jazz tunes were played on a piano to drown his cries. Mrs. Nott and John E. Johnston will be tried separately when Wade's case is disposed of.

Mrs. Nott appeared at the resumption of the trial today dressed in deep mourning. She kept her heavily veiled face downward throughout the testimony of the early witnesses.

At the request of Homer S. Cummings, chief attorney for the state to tell of the autopsy in his own way, Dr. Garlick began his recital in a monotone employing technical phrases, but so gruesome that even the sensation-hunting spectators shuddered.

Mrs. Nott's head dropped lower and lower and soon her body was convulsed with sobs. Finally she uttered a muffled moan and slumped forward in her seat. Two deputies sprang forward and assisted her from the room.

COURT ORDERS QUICK SALE OF STOCKYARDS

Washington.—Justice Stafford in the District of Columbia supreme court today rejected plans proposed by big meat packers for disposition of their stockyard interests.

Stafford also warned the packers that unless they sell their stockyard holdings within a reasonable time the court will take over the properties and operate them until the sale is completed. Government attorneys declared the decision was a "signal victory."

The ruling was handed down in connection with the agreement between the packers and Attorney General Palmer for a voluntary injunction to prevent the packers engaging in business not directly related to the packing industry.

CARPENTERS ACCEPT $1 A DAY WAGE CUT

Shreveport, La.—Union carpenters erecting the new million dollar Ardrie and Shreveport ice and brewing building today voluntarily agreed to a $1 a day wage reduction.

Pay of common labor will be cut from 45 to 35 cents an hour tomorrow. Reduction in living costs and price of materials were said to have prompted the carpenters' action.

$50,000 TOO MUCH TO SPEND ON INAUGURAL

Fifty Cents to Pay Notary Public Is Enough, One Sen- ator Says.

BORAH LEADS OPPOSITION

Western Solon Declares Voters Expect Economy, Not Dazzling Display.

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington, D. C.—Request for a $50,000 appropriation to pay expenses of the Harding inauguration ceremonies at the capitol today threw the senate into a ferment of argument which at one time threatened to end in elimination of the inaugural ceremonies entirely.

It was suggested that Harding be given fifty cents to pay a notary public for administering the constitutional oath and that his inauguration be limited to that.

Senator Knox introduced the resolution which was $15,000 larger than four years ago. Knox explained things cost more now. He said last week announced that he would try to limit the expenditure to $10,000, predicted that if congress set the pace with $50,000 for the capitol ceremonies, the inauguration would draw from state and federal treasuries at least $100,000.

"That," said Borah, "is a fine start for an administration that is consecrated to economy."

Don't Want Display

He declared the people back home expect something besides dazzling display from the Harding administration and declared if Harding had his way the ceremony would be severely simple. Borah said in addition to the $25,000 asked by Knox, $60,000 would be asked by the District of Columbia police, $37,000 to bring West Point cadets to Washington, $25,000 to bring naval academy midshipmen and $200,000 would represent the cost of turning the pension building over for an inaugural ball.

Senator Fletcher, Florida, urged Jeffersonian simplicity. Overman, North Carolina, declared congress had been taking charge of the inauguration for 100 years and should continue.

Senator Nelson, Minnesota, introduced a resolution to prohibit construction of stands on sidewalks and in parks, for the sale of seats to the public to view the inaugural parade.

"Speculators always fleece the public here," said Nelson, "and it ought to be stopped."

Rule or Misrule in Ireland Is Up to Irishmen, High British Of- ficials Declare—Opposition Candidates Are Announced.

By United Press Leased Wire
London—"Rule or misrule" in Ireland has been put up to Irishmen by the British government.

On the highest authority, that was the British attitude regarding the home rule bill which is now a law. In official circles it was said the belief exists that the Sinn Fein will elect to recognize the bill and aid in establishing an Irish government with a parliament in the north and another in the south, to be united later through a council chosen jointly.

It was declared the government will make no effort to establish a southern parliament but will turn that function over to the people. It was pointed out, however, that anti-Sinn Fein candidates already have been announced. British officials believe the Sinn Fein will not be content to see the election go by default but will present its own candidates. Sinn Fein leaders "will not embrace the republican idea until destruction," one official put it.

CUBANS HOPE CROWDER CAN BRING PEACE

American Intervention May Be Necessary if Troubles Are Not Settled.

TWO CLAIM PRESIDENCY

Political and Economical Diffi- culties Put Island in Sad Plight.

By Ralph H. Turner
Washington.—United States intervention in Cuba depends largely on Gen. Enoch H. Crowder, sent to the island by President Wilson, officials indicated today.

Crowder's trip, it was said, was not a move toward intervention, but is designed to make intervention unnecessary.

State department officials, however, made no attempt today to conceal their concern over the outcome of Cuba's plight if an early agreement is not reached on the question "who was elected president."

Crowder's discussion with President Menocal will seek to settle this question as well as the Cuban financial problems.

Crowder first will attempt to pave the way to an early decision of the election dispute. The Cuban courts are trying to decide the claims of Jose Miguel Gomez, liberal presidential candidate, that the national party employed fraudulent methods in electing Dr. Alfredo Zayas last November, but have made no progress.

Can't Get Loans

Officials said that if the new president were not definitely chosen by May 20, when Menocal's term expires, the situation would be critical, as no provision exists for an interim administration. It is also expected that Crowder will supervise in some degree the budget which will be held when the court decisions are rendered.

If Crowder succeeds in untangling the political fight, he will then direct his attention to the economic distress. No American bankers will lend money to Cuba, it was pointed out, until the political lineup becomes safe.

Representatives here of the Cuban liberal party said today they believed Crowder's appointment would insure them "fair treatment."

FINANCE BILL PASSES HOUSE DESPITE VETO

Washington.—Over President Wilson's veto, the house today passed the resolution reviving the war finance corporation.

The vote of the house gave the necessary two-thirds majority to override the president by a safe margin.

The vote on the measure was 250 for and 66 against. There was no debate preceding the vote. When the vote was announced, members applauded.

OBJECTS TO BARRING IMMIGRANTS FOR YEAR

Washington, D. C.—The move to suspend immigration was termed hysteria by Louis Marshall, New York lawyer, before the senate immigration committee, today.

Marshall condemned the bill barring immigrants for one year which the committee is considering.

Marshall said immigrants have helped, not hurt the country, and that those reaching here now are as desirable as those in past years. A proper effort has not been made to assimilate and Americanize them, he said.

Number Of Court Cases Reduced By Prohibition

Annual Report of Municipal Court Shows Big Falling Off in Fines.

The annual report of fines paid in criminal actions in municipal court during the year 1920, which has just been turned over to the county treasurer by Miss Margaret Hogan, court reporter, shows 30 convictions for drunkenness, the number having been reduced by prohibition from 48 in 1919 and from 65 in 1918. The number of assault and battery convictions was greater last year, however, than either of the previous years, being 17 in 1920, 7 in 1919 and 15 in 1918.

The amount of fines turned over to the county treasurer, two per cent of which is retained by the county and the rest forwarded to the state treasurer at Madison, was nearly $400 less than it was a year ago, the exact figures for 1920 being $650.60, while in 1919 they were $1,082. In 1918 the fines amounted to $985.

The record for 1920 is given herewith: Drunkenness, 20; assault and battery, 17; driving automobiles while intoxicated, 6; gambling, 4; walking on railroad tracks, 4; delivering coal without delivery slip, 1; selling cigarettes without a license, 1; abusive and obscene language, 3; selling grass seed without label, 1; driving automobiles without license, 2; reckless driving, 1; violation of game laws, 1; violation of traffic rules, 1; petit larceny, 3; lewd conduct, 3; total, 67. The highest fine paid was $100 for lewd conduct. The second highest was $50 for violation of game laws, and the third highest $40 for petit larceny. During the year 153 criminal actions were tried of which the above 67 paid fines and costs.

ing to see more and more that we are needed and cooperation between man and man, no matter what position he holds is needed and also wherever such cooperation is found it is bound to come through with a splendid victory.

The superintendent of the war house department of this mill, E. W. Young, had invited all his employees, about 25 in number, to share in a joyful hour of Christmas celebration with splendid decorations and a Christmas tree. Under the tree was spread a generous supply of apples, oranges, candies, nuts, cigars and cigarettes, which was turned over by Mr. Young to the employees. The expense was large and was entirely covered by Mr. Young.

The whole affair must have left a deep and lasting impression upon every one who had the pleasure of being a partaker. E. Mahler, general manager, was also present and in a few words gave a brief view of the market situation at present and showing how necessary it is for cooperation between each and every one if the

FUTURE KIDS MISS OLD CIRCUS GLAMOUR

Veteran Circus Men Invent Tubular Steel Supports for "Big Tops."

Baraboo—Some of the glamour of the old circus tent is due for the discard. The familiar "big top" with flapping canvas, foot-tripping guy ropes and stakes, and center poles is doomed to be scrapped in favor of a new canvas amphitheater whose great vaulted dome will be supported by a web of slender steel bars.

The evolution of the circus tent has been accomplished here by three veteran circus men, who have organized a company to manufacture a patented sectional tubular frame and canvas for tents of any size. They are Fred and Charles Gohmar, formerly owners of Gohmar Brothers' circus, and Tom Buckley, treasurer for Ringling Brothers' circus for many years.

The inventor, a relative of the late Al Ringling, circus king, is to supervise the manufacture of the frames and tents. The frame will be made from interchangeable tubular steel sections, light in weight and requiring no tools in erecting. The tent has no center poles or guy ropes, but the vaulted dome is supported by a network of steel bars.

The concern will also manufacture the portable frames for summer camps, auto tourist outfits, and portable garages.

RUM LAW VIOLATORS BREED BOLSHIEVISM

Prohibition Enforcement Officer Pleads for Greater Respect for Law.

Wausau—Facing the need of an educational campaign as a means of enforcing prohibition law, Thomas A. Delaney of Green Bay, federal prohibition director for Wisconsin, delivered a stirring address to Wausau rum-tarians and their guests, on "Law Enforcement."

"Prohibition is no longer an issue," he said, "it is reality backed up by an amendment to the constitution, which in turn is backed up by an enforcement measure, the Volstead act. That means prohibition is part and parcel of the basic law of the land."

Doctors Not to Blame
In regard to permissive authority granted in law, Delaney said, only physicians can issue prescriptions for liquor, then, only when the physical

"I entrust you, as full fledged citizens, people of a nation that has done much for civilization, do not deal lightly with law, for in doing so you are risking much. The illiterate will feel and believe that, if one constitutional amendment can be disregarded why can not the entire constitution be relegated to the ash pile."

Substitutes are Poisonous
"Bolshievisms will say that now is the time to preach hate and discord to people because the so-called better class violates one law, why respect law. In addition, we are encouraging illicit manufacture of poisonous substitutes."

"Therefore, in the name of physically healthy and morally sound future generation, in the name of a nation loving 100 per cent American citizenry, I implore you to look at the serious side of the new law. Rally to our support in its enforcement and you will be amply rewarded in knowledge that you have prevented an untimely death by poison, an unfortunate charge upon the state, and the continuance of future men and women as loyal to America."

PLYWOOD CORPORATION ENDS ITS FIRST YEAR

(Special to Post-Crescent)

New London—The American Plywood Corporation which began operation in this city December 23, 1919 has seen steadily at work for a year. The initial year's business has exceeded expectations of corporation officers.

The principal products the past year have been the Bolber traveling goods, phonograph cabinets, bedroom furniture, desks, and traveling trunks.

The payroll totaled $194,000. The company has contracts for its log supply for 1921 amounting to over two million feet. The timber will consist of birch, larchwood, ash and elm and will come principally from the north near Ashland. It will also purchase bolts and lumber from farmers in this locality.

The Hatten-Lumber company plant which has been forced to close down due to inability to obtain logs, began operations Tuesday with a full crew of men.

A new repair shop has been opened on North Water street by Messrs. Barcus and Mitchell. They have installed the equipment necessary for all kinds of repairing.

Hugh Burnette, who served a prison term in 1918 and on his way to serve another, escaped from Sheriff Martin Georgeson by jumping through the window of a passenger train while passing through New London at the junction. He was soon captured, however, and is now safely lodged behind the bars at Waupun. He was convicted of issuing worthless checks.

A new ruling concerning city delivery of mails went into effect January 1. No mail will be delivered hereafter on holidays. It was thought best to make this change due to the fact so many families are out of the city and the mail carrier returns with one-half of the mail. Persons expecting mail may call at the city window from 8 to 10:30 o'clock a. m.

On Friday evening January 7, the young men of the Methodist church and their friends will be guests of the Friendly Men's class, a social organization of the church. Games have been planned and refreshments, consisting of panades, maple syrup and sausage will be served.

Mrs. Fred C. Reuter, H. Mumm, Charles Roloff, Edward Roloff, A. Ludwig, H. Gerndt and A. Kussrow compose a social and reception committee for the Frauen Verein party to be given at the Lutheran school Thursday evening, January 6.

Several New London people were in Madison Monday, attending the inaugural ceremonies at the state capital, when Governor J. J. Blaine takes the oath of office.

The "Watch Night Service" at the M. E. church Friday evening was attended by a large crowd. The early part of the evening was spent in a social way followed by a program and refreshments, ending in a prayer service lasting through midnight.

Stevens Point—After a continuous public service of twenty-two years Frank H. Timm of this city retired January 1 as clerk of circuit court for Portage county. First elected to office in 1898, Mr. Timm has since been returned to office for 10 consecutive terms. In every election, except in 1906, 1910 and 1912, he had opposition.

During his long period of service he has been absent from his official duties on account of illness only one day, that being during his first year as clerk of court.

Mr. Timm has made no plans for the future, but expects to take a rest for a few months. He was succeeded Jan. 1 by P. E. Webster, who was elected last fall when Mr. Timm declined to be a candidate. Mr. Webster began his duties Monday.

Miss Ruth Marvin, physical education teacher of the high school is seriously ill at her home in Hamilton, Ohio. Miss Marjory Thomas, a junior in the physical education course at the University of Wisconsin, is substituting for Miss Marvin.

COL. M'COY IS NOW GUARD BRIGADIER

Sparta Man Is First to Be Made General Officer in Time of Peace.

Milwaukee—Col. Robert H. McCoy of Sparta has been promoted to the rank of brigadier general in the Wisconsin National guard, according to word received here on Monday. Col. McCoy is said to be first guardman to receive this rank in time of peace in the history of the Wisconsin National guard.

Gen. McCoy has been active in the state guard for a fairly lengthy period of years. He organized Company L, Third Wisconsin infantry, before the Spanish-American war and served as its commanding officer in Porto Rico in 1898.

Led Rifle Team
He became state inspector of small arms practice in 1907 and led the state rifle team in the national competition at Camp Perry, Ohio, for many years.

At the outbreak of the Mexican border trouble in 1916, he became assistant chief of staff for the Twelfth Provisional division, stationed at Camp

Wilson, Texas, and later served as brigade adjutant of the first brigade of that unit.

Early in 1917, Gen. McCoy toured the state on a recruiting campaign, speaking in more than seventy cities and towns. He organized the fifteen companies in the Fourth Wisconsin regiment, of which he later became colonel, and several additional units assigned to other regiments.

During the world war, he successfully commanded the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth, One Hundred and Twenty-seventh, and One Hundred and Twenty-eighth infantry regiments of the Thirty-second division and also had command of the One Hundred and Seventh trains for a period in the training area.

Won War Honors
He took part in the Alsace defensive, Marne-Aisne offensive, Oise-Aisne, and Meuse-Argonne while in command of the One Hundred and Twenty-eighth infantry, and was decorated with the French croix de guerre with palm and the United States distinguished service medal. While in Germany, he was elected the first president of the Thirty-second Division, Veterans' association.

Gen. McCoy was the democratic candidate for governor in the fall election.

STATE INSURANCE IS OVER SIXTY MILLIONS

Madison—The amount of state insured property has reached $60,000,000, the annual report of the commissioner of insurance reveals. The total amount of premiums and interest received by the insurance fund since its inception in April, 1913, to April 1, 1920, was $494,119, while the losses have been $599,161, with a net balance after deduction of all expense amounting to $288,419.

Under operation of the insurance law all state property is insured against fire and tornado. The property owned by the state with the exception of the state capital and the historical library is insured for 50 per cent of its value.

During the world war, a shipyard in Germany, he was elected the first president of the Thirty-second Division, Veterans' association.

Gen. McCoy was the democratic candidate for governor in the fall election.

This is first accurate information on truancy violations taken here and school authorities intend to bring into court parents of children who are violating the state laws regarding school attendance. Gathering Facts For the Income Tax

The time for making a new Income Tax Report to the Government is drawing near.

Last March thousands of merchants found it necessary to employ a public accountant to assist them in making up their tax statement. This meant lots of trouble—heavy expense.

Here's the Solution

The Burroughs Retail Machine Bookkeeping System automatically gives you the necessary figures for making your tax report, and a lot of other valuable information as well. The figures are always ready and always right—they are proved every day.

No high-priced bookkeeper or expert accountant is needed. Any one of your clerks can operate it—and do the work in half the time now required.

And the Proof

The experience of the Bur Grocery Company of Green Bay, Wisconsin, proves this. A few minutes after the Burroughs Bookkeeping Machine had been installed, the bookkeeper was operating it proficiently, posting the ledgers far more rapidly than had been previously possible.

Most any retailer can use the Burroughs System at a profit. A phone call will bring a Burroughs man to your store at any time to explain the system. There are hundreds of the Burroughs Bookkeeping Machines in use right here in this vicinity.

Stored Foods

At certain seasons of the year, nature mothers us in generous lavishness; at other seasons she treats us as outcasts.

One great service rendered by Swift & Company to the consumer is in taking some of the surplus of nature's plenty and storing it against the season of non-production. This is a service based upon sound common sense and meets a definite economic need.

This enables you to obtain all the year round some foods which otherwise would be so abundant in certain months that the entire supply could not be used, and so scarce at other times that prices would be prohibitive.

Swift & Company has equipped its plants and branch houses with refrigerating plants, and has a sufficient number of refrigerator cars to carry a supply of meat foods to its customers. Space in public cold storage warehouses also is used by us to carry perishables until they are needed.

We store only enough meat, butter, poultry, eggs, and cheese to supply our customers during the period of scarcity and not to speculate on rising prices. Our storage profits during the last eight years have averaged about one cent a dozen on eggs, and less than a cent a pound on butter and poultry.

Storage of food is a world necessity and we regard our part in this as an important factor in our service in supplying the nation with wholesome food.

THE JAPANESE WAR BOGEY
For the last ten years this country has heard much about the "yellow peril" and the certainty of war between Japan and the United States. Since the termination of the World war the agitation for war between these countries has increased. Politicians up and down the country and newspapers with some ulterior end to serve or ax to grind have been getting the public ready for the "inevitable" conflict with Japan. The "warming up" of the "yellow peril" propaganda has reached proportions which brought real apprehension to the public and concern to the governments of both nations.

Much of the clamor against Japan has been spurious. Much of it has been manufactured: much of it senseless and baseless. It has served certain interests and politics to keep it alive. It has been a dangerous propaganda because it has made more difficult of solution the delicate racial issue involved in our relationship with Japan, and because it has increased the sensitiveness of both governments and both peoples. If anything were calculated to bring on war it was exactly this pernicious and tactless agitation.

We have had the same propaganda against England; have it in fact every day of the year in the Hearst newspapers. It is lamentable because it does influence some unthinking persons, but it is not as dangerous as the anti-Japanese talk because historically, economically and socially Great Britain and the United States are bound by ties that are extremely unlikely to ever be broken. We have had many acute controversies with England in the last century, several of them very delicate and filled with powder, but war has been unthinkable and very far removed. The anti-British have made no substantial progress in their purpose to foster hostility between the two nations. Similarly we have had the rankest kind of anti-Mexican agitation, bent upon armed intervention or war with Mexico, all to serve special interests and political ends. In the long run peace and good sense have prevailed and war has been avoided.

The anti-Japanese propagandists are about to receive another blow, for the indications are that the dispute involving California and the general immigration policy of the United States is to be amicably settled. California may extend its land holding act to prohibit acquisition of title to real estate by all aliens, thereby removing the discrimination against Japanese. This would be a concession to Japan. The "gentlemen's agreement" with Japan would be revised to prevent emigration of all Japanese to the United States or the Hawaiian Islands. This would appear to be a reasonable and satisfactory adjustment of the matter and all indications point to a peaceful settlement on this basis or its modification.

The settlement should remove the causes of friction between Japan and the United States, but that will not silence the war-must-have-war element. It has read in the stars or somewhere that we have got to fight the little brown men. It would shatter its pet theories if it were to be otherwise. There is no necessity of war with Japan. There is no reason why we should ever go to arms with her. Intelligent statesmanship and a friendly national attitude should be able to solve all differences that may arise. An attitude of hostility and prejudice might cause war, if war is what we really want.

THE WAR FINANCE CORPORATION
It would be hard to say whether the president or congress is right on the question of reviving the War Finance corporation. On a very light vote the senate almost unanimously has passed the bill to restore this federal agency over the president's veto. The reasons given by Mr. Wilson in his veto message are good reasons, provided they rest upon correct assumptions. Probably he has received advice from business and financial sources; if not, he would have done well to avail himself of such consultation.

Congress is proceeding upon the theory that in order to revive foreign buying of American agricultural products government advances are necessary. This may be true and it would of course be the only justification for still further involving the United States in European credit. The facts are not clear. We have recently organized the foreign trade financing corporation, a strictly private enterprise, to meet this situation, and it will be generally admitted, we believe, that agencies of this character for the promotion of American commerce, whether for the benefit of agriculture or manufacturing, are more desirable than government intervention.

However, it is conditions we face, and not theories. If reestablishment of the War Finance corporation will help to increase the demand for our agricultural products abroad, and other instruments are not available or are not likely to become available, this policy is commendable. The American farmer is in need of constructive assistance, and if the government can aid him where private agencies have failed, so much the better. The opening up of larger foreign markets to his products is urgently needed.

VON BETHMANN-HOLLWEG
The death of Dr. Theobald von Bethmann-Hollweg, former German imperial chancellor, removes one of the conspicuous figures of the World war. Prior to the war von Bethmann-Hollweg was an ardent militarist and a radical opponent of democratic tendencies in Germany. He was a bitter foe of socialism, not merely of socialism in itself, but because of its relation to popular government as opposed to autocracy.

It was von Bethmann-Hollweg who made the famous utterance in his interview with Sir Edward Goschen, British ambassador to Germany, that the international obligation to preserve Belgian neutrality was a mere "scrap of paper." This covenant bore the signature of Germany as well as Great Britain. The German chancellor took the position that it was not worth England's support at the cost of war. In the same interview he admitted that German occupation of Belgian territory "is contrary to international law."

Von Bethmann-Hollweg lived to see the day when the world, through the greatest appeal to arms in all history, repudiated his doctrine and established at the cost of millions of lives the principle which probably will never be challenged again that treaty engagements are solemn obligations to be discharged in good faith. He also lived to see the world repudiate and utterly crush the doctrine that might makes right. It was not long after the war started that von Bethmann-Hollweg saw some of his mistakes, and it was partly because he urged a more moderate policy that the German emperor removed him and appointed as his successor Dr. George Michaelis. Von Bethmann-Hollweg was one of the direct official causes of precipitating the World war, but in assuming this tremendous responsibility the allies made and history will confirm allowance for the fact that he merely executed the purposes and policies of the former kaiser and the military caste of Germany.

GOING TO THE CITY
There was fine, old-fashioned flavor to Mrs. Warren G. Harding's announcement several days ago that she was "going to the city" to buy her White House outfit. She meant she was going downtown in Marion where the stores are.

"Going to the city" still possesses for women the same fragrance of glamour that it had for their mothers and grandmothers even though one can now shop by telephone.

For ma there is magic in the very phrase "going to the city," suggesting, as it does, explorations in a wonderful land filled with her heart's desires.

She is up unusually early on the great day set for "going to the city," the magical place which may be only a 30 minute car ride from her home. She has a busy morning, wait with crowding a whole day's household work into a few hours so that she may start on her enterprise before noon.

And, then, affixing a last dab of powder to her nose, she fares forth for five hours of what to a woman is almost perfect happiness, five hours of shopping, and picking of window peering, of trying on, of strolling through store aisles—highways of woman's fairyland.

When she starts for home she may have bought little or nothing, but she regards the day as a happy and successful one. Men wonder why women make so much of "going to the city." And the answer is that "going to the city" means a few hours' release from the drudgery of kitchens and brooms and dust pans and scrub-brushes. It means a day off—a holiday! And it is the one holiday that doesn't mean more work for ma in the kitchen.

HEALTH IS A FUNNY THING
Health is a funny thing, really. If you've got it you keep quietly chuckling to yourself all the time—something tickles you inside.

I made some attention to this delightful sensation that goes with health plus in one of my talks, and some odd lady took me severely to task for it. She told me it was most unbecoming of me and betrayed a very selfish nature, and furthermore it was cruel and wicked of me to crow and chuckle over my fine health, and so many thousands of people with such poor health that they would give almost anything for one short day of relief.

Do you suppose they have separate compartments in heaven, and assign entrants to their proper sections of heaven where a fellow can be glad he's happy? I hope they won't make any mistake and put me in with the angels whose happiness is spoiled by the knowledge that some other angels may not be so happy as they. Rather than that I'd prefer to go to the devil. From what I've seen of him this latter citizen of the hereafter seems to be a cheerful fellow, at any rate.

There is a fine distinction which must be made between health and disease. Health, an exceedingly rare state, is the perfect functioning of the body. Disease is any impairment or disturbance of any function. Disease is not funny at all, except to the instances among the neighbors. The great trouble with disease is that it inevitably produces symptoms. Symptoms are the manifestations of disturbed functions.

Now I say health is a very rare state. Ninety-nine out of a hundred who have ordinary, fair health, as the saying is, really have some disease, nothing serious, you understand, just some functional impairment that keeps them from enjoying that funny feeling I mentioned at the beginning.

You see what I'm getting at, don't you? Sure. They have some symptoms.

Some people set out in life to trail symptoms, and sooner or later they find plenty of them. They carry banners inscribed with huge minus signs. They are pessimists. They have a lot of bad blood stagnating in their splanchnic veins. They are great readers of almanacs and testimonials; both forms of literature are replete with symptoms.

Other people go out after better health and select for their banners plus signs. They're optimists. If they have anything to be happy about they get a glad hand and save their long faces for a rainy day.

The symptom propaganda, so industriously conducted by the quacks and the patent medicine sharks in America and Canada in the past century or more, accounts for a good half of all the ill health of the people today.

Answer me this: Have you ever known a nostrum bound who wasn't a pessimist?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
A Popular Misunderstanding
I was aware that you do not prescribe for readers. I did not ask you to prescribe for me. I merely asked you to suggest a diet for my condition and any exercise you might deem helpful. It seems to me that you lean backward in your attempt to be ethical. (Mrs. P. B. A.)

ANSWER—My dear friend, ethics is not concerned. You labor under a popular misapprehension, assuming that it is a doctor's province to prescribe drugs and nothing else. As a matter of fact, medical practitioners today prescribe many other remedies than drugs, among them diet and exercise. I am incapable of prescribing drugs, exercise or diet for individual cases without having such personal knowledge of the circumstances as I may obtain through a personal examination only. It is a matter of fair dealing to the reader, not to myself. In fact, if you will take the trouble to investigate, you will find that our much maligned code of medical ethics is practically nothing but fair dealing for the patient, and not an unreasonable and selfish set of rules for the physician's personal benefit.

Consumption Not Inherited
Is consumption inherited? (A. S. F.)

ANSWER—No. That notion arose from the frequent occurrence of several cases of the disease in a family, but the truth is that one infected the other through prolonged intimate personal contact, as the contact between parent and child.

Health Talks
BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers' names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

HEALTH IS A FUNNY THING
Health is a funny thing, really. If you've got it you keep quietly chuckling to yourself all the time—something tickles you inside.

I made some attention to this delightful sensation that goes with health plus in one of my talks, and some odd lady took me severely to task for it. She told me it was most unbecoming of me and betrayed a very selfish nature, and furthermore it was cruel and wicked of me to crow and chuckle over my fine health, and so many thousands of people with such poor health that they would give almost anything for one short day of relief.

Do you suppose they have separate compartments in heaven, and assign entrants to their proper sections of heaven where a fellow can be glad he's happy? I hope they won't make any mistake and put me in with the angels whose happiness is spoiled by the knowledge that some other angels may not be so happy as they. Rather than that I'd prefer to go to the devil. From what I've seen of him this latter citizen of the hereafter seems to be a cheerful fellow, at any rate.

There is a fine distinction which must be made between health and disease. Health, an exceedingly rare state, is the perfect functioning of the body. Disease is any impairment or disturbance of any function. Disease is not funny at all, except to the instances among the neighbors. The great trouble with disease is that it inevitably produces symptoms. Symptoms are the manifestations of disturbed functions.

Now I say health is a very rare state. Ninety-nine out of a hundred who have ordinary, fair health, as the saying is, really have some disease, nothing serious, you understand, just some functional impairment that keeps them from enjoying that funny feeling I mentioned at the beginning.

You see what I'm getting at, don't you? Sure. They have some symptoms.

Some people set out in life to trail symptoms, and sooner or later they find plenty of them. They carry banners inscribed with huge minus signs. They are pessimists. Municipal Aid to Cupid
By Frederic J. Haskin

New York City—With Brother Crafts attacking public courting on the one hand, and the housing situation making privy courting difficult on the other, the result is to be a social service workers of our large cities fear that, unless some extraordinary measure is taken to restore the course of true love may run, a serious setback.

What they advocate is establishment of municipal courting parlors—run possibly in connection with the public schools or churches—where the youth of the nation can do its love-making against a dignified background.

The courting situation is becoming worse daily, they assert, as housing conditions become more acute. With several families occupying one small house or apartment, there is simply no space left for Cupid. From the comfortable and romantic seclusion of the dim, back parlor, he has been thrust into the street, where he has about the same degree of privacy as a white-aproned pancake turner in a child's restaurant window.

Never before have our American girls been so handicapped in the highly important business of fascinating prospective husbands. Never before has it been so difficult to corner and capture an eligible young man. For all the old reliable tricks of the courting campaign have been swept away by the housing shortage. Miss Jones, who used to attract so many beaux with the aid of her mother's charming little Sunday night suppers, now has to make the best of two feet of space in the front hall, the dining-room being rented to another family at the rate of $100 a month. And Miss Smith, who used to be able to wheedle a proposal out of any man in the dim, pink-shaded radiance of the family parlor, has now had to learn an entirely new technique for doing the same thing in a movie theater.

No Place at Home
It has come to the point where, unless a family is rich a girl practically has to meet her boy friends outside her home. Instead of sitting in the parlor with the light turned low, they are now forced to meet in hotel lobbies, corner drug stores, parks, movies and cabarets, where there are always many interruptions to the serious work in hand. The experience of social workers shows that Cupid does not thrive in such conditions. Often he is cruelly misunderstood by the police, and frequently he himself proves unreliable, with the result that thousands of girls are now finding their romantic dreams ending in unpleasant affairs in the juvenile and women's courts.

One of the leaders of the new movement for city courting parlors is Miss Mary Bartelme, chief of the staff of social workers in the Chicago Juvenile Court.

"I have been watching the vicissitudes of city courting for 20 years," declared Miss Bartelme recently in discussing this novel project, "and I have listened to thousands of girls tell their stories, how they happened to 'go wrong,' why they met young men clandestinely outside their homes, and what they would have done had the housing conditions been different. And I am firmly convinced that the housing problem is at the bottom of most of the cases that come to me."

"What we need," continued the small, grey-haired lady, who knows so much about fallen femininity, "is public courting parlors. School boards should turn their buildings over to the young folks. Churches should be open every night to help girls entertain their friends."

"Cities are building up great municipal garages to park automobiles so they don't clutter up the streets. Department stores and theaters check babies so mothers can go in. So why not have a municipal courting parlor where a girl can park her sweetie?"

The same view is held by a prominent clubwoman here in New York whose hobby is smoothing the path of the working girl. She asserts that under present conditions the moving picture theatres and dance halls are the only haven for the majority of courting couples. So many of the young girls here in New York come from small towns, she says, and they do not bring their families with them. They live in small rooms in crowded boarding houses, which seldom maintain parlors any more where the boarders may entertain their friends. The only place they can meet young men is in the street.

You Can't Blame Geraldine
"The other day," the clubwoman told the reporter, "a mother came to me very much worried because her daughter, who is only 18, had been seen so frequently with men in a rather notorious hotel lobby. She never thought Geraldine would turn out that way, she told me pathetically."

"Turn out what way?" I said indignantly. "Are you asking me to believe that Geraldine is a fool? If so, I can't accommodate you. I think that the child is taking the only course open to her. You both live in one room in a boarding house, and it is not a very attractive room at that. Geraldine could not possibly entertain her friends there, and so she selects the most attractive background available to her, which is the hotel around the corner. I have seen her there myself talking nonsense with that Columbus student who is so mad about her."

One of the worst results of this lack of courting facilities, according to this woman, is the hasty marriage. Young folks, despairing of having any privacy, decide to get married and find a place they can call their own, she says.

"And everybody knows what happens in too many hasty marriages," she added. "The courting parlor, would, I believe, lift a tremendous burden from the divorce courts."

Several New York apartment houses have recently responded to the need for some institution by equipping and relighting a portion of their lobbies for the social diversions of their young tenants. One such apartment house in the Bronx has a large reception room for this purpose on the first floor, containing a tasteful number of cozy corners, a tea table, and a player piano and Victrola with a large assortment of dance records.

Public Spooneries
There is also a woman's club, known to many as The Girl's Community Club, on East Thirtieth Street here, which has made special efforts to revive the pastime of courting for its members. It has a huge clubroom attractively furnished and divided into private nooks and corners, with a porch conservatory in the rear and a small kitchen on the side. Thus, when any member of the club wants to entertain her particular swain, she can place a tea table in a corner of the clubroom or conservatory and serve him tea or oyster stew prepared in the club kitchen. If she wishes to emphasize the domestic note, she can even invite the young man into the kitchen and let him wipe the dishes for her.

But while many such admirable enterprises have recently been started for the benefit of our city girls, outside courting is becoming increasingly difficult. Hotel managers are beginning to protest against the presence of so many strange, devoted couples in their lobbies; the post offices complain that their popularity as meeting places for lovers is interfering with the efficiency of the mails, and the movie theaters are becoming antagonistic to courting couples on the grounds that real love-making in the audience district interferes from the love-making in the reel. Then, there are the city police, who are so mild when it comes to re-buking crime, but are so fiercely resentful of spooning in the parks.

Only the other day, Cupid was chased from one of his strongest refuges by the police, while a great jewel robbery was taking place around the block. In proud triumph, a group of young couples were hailed into court, finger-printed, and required to explain how they dared to embrace in so righteously respectable place as a park. However, in this case the arrest came, in the majority of instances, too late. Cupid had already triumphed, for most of the girls showed the judge engagement rings as excuses for their unseemly behavior.

URGES AMERICANS TO GRAB MEXICAN TRADE
Grand Rapids, Mich.—It is time for American businessmen to forget the Mexican revolutions and get after Mexican business before the European countries again have that trade, according to Carlos Paliza of Mexico City, who is today visiting industries of Grand Rapids and western Michigan. He says that the manufactured products of this section of the United States are better than those Mexico has been buying from Europe. Senor Paliza has returned from visits to Italy, France and Spain. He says that it will be a year or two before Europe is able to get back to before the war trading conditions, while at the present time nearly as large a volume of American goods is moving into Mexico as in 1910, the banner year for Mexico. Mrs. W. H. Dean has been confined to her home for ten days with grip.

USERS of De Laval Cream Separators have carried away every first prize awarded at conventions of the National Creamery Buttermakers' Association since their first meeting in 1892. The record is unbroken!

The reason is that De Laval bowl design, together with low speed, enables the delivery of butter-fat globules unbroken and in their natural condition—thus insuring better butter.

Because of its close skimming the De Laval produces more cream, which means more butter.

Thus the user of a De Laval Separator gets both more and better butter.

Moundsville, W. Va.—"I had taken doctor's medicine for nearly two years because my periods were irregular, came every two weeks, and would suffer with bearing-down pains. A lady told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and how much good it had done her daughter, so I took it and now I am regular every month and have no pain at all. I recommend your medicine to everyone and you may publish my testimonial, hoping that the Vegetable Compound does some other girl the good it has done me."

Mrs. GEORGE TEGARDEN, 916 Third Street, Moundsville, W. Va.

How many young girls suffer as Mrs. Tegarden did and do not know where to turn for advice or help. They often are obliged to earn their living by toiling day in and day out no matter how hard the pain they have to bear. Every girl who suffers in this way should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and if she does not get prompt relief write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., about their health.

Tells How to Darken Gray Hair With a Home Made Mixture

Joicy Williams, the well-known American actress, recently made the following statement about gray hair and how to darken it, with a home made mixture:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will gradually darken gray, streaked or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1/4 ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made.

Here's an easy way to save 25c. and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? Thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will soon earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments. To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. BEGIN WORK ON INCOME REPORTS

Reports Must Be Filed With State Assessor of Incomes Before March 1.

The annual season for preparing income tax returns is at hand. State income tax returns for corporations must be filed by Feb. 15 and returns for individuals must be in the hands of the assessor by March 1.

Suggestions for filling out the blanks have been received from the income assessor's office. It was held that partners in business must also report individual incomes.

Under the Wisconsin law, firms or co-partnerships can be assessed on net income. Special forms are prepared for this purpose. Partnership profits are taxable to the firm, not to individual members of the firm.

The filing of a partnership return does not exempt the members of the firm from filing individual returns. Profits taxed to a partnership are deductible to members of the firm reporting the same, so that no double tax results. Individuals doing business under a trade name, but not a partnership or corporation, should make a return as an individual.

Losses may be deducted, if sustained during 1920, if such loss resulted from the sale of capital assets or business used in the production of the income. Losses resulting from transaction of business, or the ownership of property outside of the state, the profit on which could not have been taxed had one been realized, are not proper deductions. Any claim for losses must be fully defined before allowance can be made.

Who Makes Returns

Under the Wisconsin law, returns must be made by any one acting in a fiduciary capacity, be he agent, receiver, guardian, administrator, executor, etc. All income should be returned to the assessor on a special form No. 2.

An amendment, known as Chapter 265 of the laws of 1917, provided that no estate can be closed in any county court without obtaining a certificate showing that returns have been made to the assessor of incomes and that income taxes are paid, if any were levied.

Exemptions under the federal income tax law are not to be confused with exemptions under the Wisconsin law, which allows a single person $800, including widows or widowers while husband and wife are allowed an exemption of $1,200 with an additional exemption of $200 for each child under 18 years of age.

Marriage Exemptions

In case of marriage during 1920, the exemption is $1,200 but any income earned by the wife before marriage is to be returned with the husband's income. If either husband or wife died in 1920, the exemption of $1,200 is allowed in full.

An allowance of $200 for each dependent actually supported by the taxpayer may be claimed, but no claim can be made for children over 18 years of age although entirely supported by parents, unless such children are dependent on account of physical or mental condition.

Payment of Income Taxes

Payment of state income taxes is to be made in all cases to the local city, town or village treasurer. Payment is never to be made to the assessor of incomes. The reports are to be made to the assessor and the tax is then certified to the local treasurer by the county clerk and the collection is then made by the treasurer.

The Misses Mary and Lena Kitzinger spent New Years' with friends at Black Creek.

ABOLISH RECEIPT FOR SPECIAL MAIL

Better Service Expected From New Ruling of Postoffice Department.

Special delivery letters will be delivered without securing the customary receipt of the addressee, according to notice received from Washington by the local postoffice. Better service is expected as a result of the change, which is already in effect.

Letters of this kind are not always available to receipt for special delivery letters when the carrier calls, but the letter could be left with assurance addressee would receive it promptly. The former practice was to make one attempt to deliver, according to the rules, and leave a notice in the absence of the addressee, informing him to call at the postoffice for his letter. Many people could not be roused on Sunday mornings to call for letters. This will all be done away with under the new rulings. The department has decided that the special delivery system is to expedite delivery of mail rather than to safeguard it. Protection is provided in the register system, which should be used where currency or valuable papers are enclosed. Ordinary first class mail is usually delivered safely without need of a receipt, and experience has shown that special delivery letters can be handled in the same way. Carriers will use their judgment as to leaving letters where the owner might not find them.

COMMISSION CONSIDERS PETITION FOR FLAGMAN

Theodore Berg, city attorney, who was authorized by the common council to petition the Wisconsin railroad commission for a flagman at Menomonie street crossing where a fatal accident recently occurred, was notified by the commission that the matter under consideration. In the event that it finds the petition contains sufficient merit to warrant it the next move of the commission is to call a hearing at which both the city and the Northwestern railroad company will be given an opportunity to be heard.

SEEK DELEGATES TO NATIONAL C. OF C.

Appleton Chamber of Commerce Wants to Be Represented at Washington.

Some Appleton Chamber of Commerce member may have the privilege of representing the city at an important meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, January 27 and 28 at New Willard hotel, Washington, D. C.

Each commercial body will be entitled to representation by one delegate, but none has been elected here. Secretary Corbett therefore offers to furnish credentials to any member of the Appleton chamber who plans to be in or near Washington at that time, and who will attend the sessions.

Many matters of importance to business houses of the country will be taken up, but the primary purpose of the meeting is to consider the housing problem. Investigations conducted by the national chamber's civic department indicate that commercial progress is impeded and will be more so unless housing is given more serious thought. The councilors will probably recommend a solution to the board of directors of the national body.

LOWER PRICE OF SUGAR ROBS FARMERS OF BONUS

Outagamie county farmers are not entitled to bonus on their sugar beets this year because the average wholesale price of sugar dropped below ten cents per pound during the months of October, November and December. The guaranteed price was $10 per ton.

Alderman A. W. Laabs again had the distinction of being the heaviest grower in Outagamie county, having raised 68 acres of beets which produced 504 tons of sugar. The quality of beets this year was not as good as last year.

Beets grown in Outagamie county last year were about evenly distributed between the Green Bay and Menominee factories.

OBSERVE 'WEEK OF PRAYER' AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

A "week of prayer" will be observed by Memorial Presbyterian church at 7:30 o'clock Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of this week, in the chapel. Mrs. C. S. Little will talk on "Thanksgiving and Confession" Monday evening. "The Church Universal" will be discussed Tuesday evening by J. E. Bond. The Rev. Doane Upjohn will address the congregation Thursday evening. "Christian Education in our Family Life" will be the subject of an address by the Rev. Leo R. Burroughs, Friday evening.

These Girls are with the "Katzenjammer Kids" at Appleton theatre Thursday night.

The STAGE

"Hearts of Erin" will bring a new Irish star to this city when it is presented at Appleton theatre, Jan. 5.

The star is Walter Scanlan, who has been one of the foremost light opera tenors of this country and a protégé of Victor Herbert, in whose opera "Eileen," he sang the leading tenor role. In his new role Mr. Scanlan is said to be the cleverest impersonator of the Irish character seen on the stage in many years. During his engagement here he will be heard in a number of fine songs.

Katzenjammer Kids

Who says there's nothing new under the sun? There is, and it's a big musical comedy called "Katzenjammer Kids," made from the funny cartoons in the Sunday supplements and produced under the direction of George M. Cotts. It's a clean, humorous, up-to-the-minute entertainment designed to afford theatregoers a pleasant evening in the playhouse, and it serves its purpose to the fullest extent. It is to be

FARMERS HAUL LOGS TO TWELVE CORNERS MILL

Twelve Corners commences to look like an old-time lumber camp. Farmers are cutting and hauling it to the Twelve Corners saw mill where it will be cut into rough lumber for building purposes. There is already quite an accumulation but Fred Vick, proprietor of the mill, usually waits until the hauling is completed and then makes one job out of the entire log collection. The mill machinery is also used for custom grinding.

INVITE APPLETON MEN TO BELOIT C. OF C. MEETING

Beloit Chamber of Commerce will be the first in Wisconsin to lay before its members the question of organizing a state chamber. A letter has been received by Hugh G. Corbett, managing secretary of the Appleton chamber, inviting himself and W. C. Wing, president of the Beloit meeting Thursday evening, January 6.

Robert R. Denny, president of the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce, is to be the speaker. He will tell what has been accomplished in the neighbor state.

Mr. Corbett is chairman of a committee appointed at the summer meet-

EMBRYO BREEDERS RECEIVE CALVES

Boys' and Girls' Calf Club of First National Bank Gets Under Way.

Nearly all the calves for members of the boys' and girls' calf club of the First National bank have been distributed to their owners. A few more Guernsey and Holstein animals are expected for delivery in a day or two.

Final details of the club plan were explained at a meeting of all the embryo breeders and parents in the directors' room of the bank Wednesday, R. S. Howell, president of the bank, gave a short address stating the bank was glad to further help the dairying interests of Outagamie county.

Operation of Club Explained

The plan under which the club is to operate was explained by Paul O. Nyhus, farm agent. He emphasized the aim as being purely an effort to raise good calves. Care of the calves was mentioned and he also stated the six best animals would probably be sent to the 1921 state fair for exhibition.

Each child was given his note from the bank covering the cost of the calf and was told to take it home and have it executed. The parents were not required to sign, because the bank officials had no fear the children would break faith.

Protection of calves against death or accident is to be provided in a trust fund furnished by club members. Ten per cent of the cost price of the calf was added to the notes and this amount was placed on deposit with the First Trust company. Experience in other clubs has proved there is seldom any need to draw upon it for lost animals. In this case, the money will be returned, together with accrued interest, when the club has completed its work. Any losses will be settled in full or pro rata on September 15, 1921.

He was kept in jail Saturday night and was arraigned in court Monday morning on the charge of drunkenness. He was given his choice between a fine of one dollar and costs or one day in the county jail and accepted the latter.

Jacob Behle, town of Grand Chute, left Monday for Madison to enroll for the short course at the College of Agriculture.

SAGE TEA BEAUTIFIES AND DARKENS HAIR

DON'T STAY GRAY! IT DARKENS SO NATURALLY THAT NOBODY CAN TELL

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and equally that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days. adv.

Service Star Legion Pays Tribute To Soldier Sons

Touching Scenes When Banner and Painting Are Presented to Veterans.

As a symbol of its mother love for the sons who fought in the World War, and for those who died on the field of battle, the Service Star Legion presented Oney Johnston post No. 38 of the American Legion with a beautiful banner at the meeting Monday evening at Elk hall. A frame of 75 of Oney Johnston's after whom the post was named was also presented by Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Johnston. Members of the Service Star Legion and boy scout troop No. 5 attended in a body.

The banner is of richly colored navy blue silk, bordered by a gold fringe. The name of the post and the Legion emblem is lettered on both sides in gold. A gold American eagle is poised at the top of the staff.

Members of the post were clated over the costly emblem with which the legion honors them. Mrs. J. H. Tippett made the presentation speech, expressing the high regard of the Service Star Legion for the American Legion and its principles. Homer H. Denton, post commander, responded with a brief, impressive address expressing the gratitude of the post for the gift.

What Emblem Means
 Mr. Denton told what the Legion emblem represented. The outer border stood for the light rays of peace and brotherhood, the wreath for the memory of the departed and the star for the service each man performed for his country. He assured the ladies the post members appreciated the spirit in which the banner was given. A rising vote of thanks was given.

Mrs. W. R. Johnston came to the platform following the presentation and told how she and her husband appreciated the tribute to their son who died in battle by naming the post after him. She said they wanted the members to know the man who bore that name, and therefore presented a large framed painting, done in sepia, of Oney Johnston in full stature. The picture will be hung in Elk hall, where all meetings are held.

A touching acceptance of the gift was expressed by Leitha Graef. He said the picture was still vivid in his memory of the warm day on July 29, 1918 when the 42nd Division was in the Oney river district. The advance of the division was stopped by German fire and the platoons took refuge wherever they could. A platoon under direction of Sgt. Johnston hid in what was known as the bunker.

LOSING SCOUTS PROVIDE SUPPER

Contest at First Congregational Church Ends With Supper and Program.

Losers in the Boy Scout patrol contest of troop No. 8 at the First Congregational church, were "food scouts" and treated the winners to a dinner in the church dining room Monday evening. Troop members also staged a minstrel show that was a side-splutter.

The scout cooks proved past masters in their art. They served tomato soup and wafers and firmly declared nothing more would be forthcoming. After a heavy protest they served rice potatoes with milk gravy, ham loaf, sandwiches and cocoa. The hungry winners were still clamoring for more but were silenced when generous helpings of ice cream and cookies made their appearance.

A comic orchestra gave a "concert," part of which was spread over the audience when the cornetist blew a cloud of flour out of the end of his horn. Valiant life savers came to the rescue of scouts floundering in water sprinkled on the stage. Magic stunts followed that were "too deep" for solution. Harold Zuehlke drew abundance of laughter with one of Uncle Josh's recitations borrowed from a phonograph record. Jokes were numerous and the actors sang a song backward by turning their backs to their hearers. William Meyer acted as announcer.

The patrol contest started Nov. 9, with Harold Zuehlke as leader of the first patrol and Harry Lath of the second. Points were awarded for attendance, church attendance, new recruits, hikes, successful test examinations and other scout features. The contest closed Dec. 21, second patrol had 244 points and first patrol 167.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years, and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

ALDERMEN TO URGE SCOUT CAMPS AT ALICIA PARK

Favorable action on the request of the boy scouts for occasional use of Alicia park as a week end camp site will be asked of the common council at its meeting Wednesday evening.

Aldermen Hanson, Smith and Fose, who made up the special committee to investigate the matter, were guests of the executive committee of the Appleton Scout Council at the monthly dinner Monday evening at Hotel Appleton. Frank P. Young of the camp committee explained the needs of the scouts and told the advantages of having Alicia park for camp purposes.

There was a thorough discussion after which the committee members announced that they would recommend to the city council that the use of the park be granted. Other minor business matters were disposed of.

BAND SCORES HIT IN FIRST CONCERT

Splendid Program Presented in Masterly Style Before Huge Audience.

Success of indoor concerts by the Ninth Regiment band was assured when an immense audience in Lawrence Memorial chapel Monday evening voiced its appreciation of the splendid program with vociferous applause. Nearly every seat in the big hall was filled, hundreds coming from remote sections of the city to hear the first free indoor concert by the band.

Months of rehearsal under the direction of Prof. Percy Fullinwider resulted in presentation of a concert comparable to those presented by the greatest bands in the country. Never before has a local musical organization acquitted itself more creditably than did the Ninth regiment band.

Every number was appreciated but the serenade, "A Night in June," and the march, "Hippodrome," drew more than the usual applause. The audience would not rest until the band had played several encores.

Prof. Carl Waterman pleased mightily with his tenor solos. Two numbers, presented with band accompaniment, were the big favorites. His group with piano accompaniment also was very well received and encores were demanded.

The success of this first concert probably means more will be presented during the winter. The program contained selections appealing to every class of music lover, affording the fact the music would be too "high class" for the average person. The concert was the best advertisement the band could possibly give itself.

COOLIDGE HAS DOUBLE IN BRITISH LAWMAKER

Special to Post-Crescent

London.—The Calvin Coolidge of England has been found.

While many American congressmen were hunting they could use large salaries, Coolidge, vice president-elect, announced he could get along nicely on his government stipend.

Now comes C. P. White, Liberal, in the House of Commons, with the same sort of surprise.

White not only admits he drags down enough coin—the hags about it.

White gets 400 pounds a year—at the present exchange rate about $400 as compared with a congressman's $7,500. Here's how he makes it bring both ends together.

Fifty-two pounds for room and breakfast.
